Concerning Soil Tillage

After the ground is plowed, it should be disced and harrowed until all lumps are finely pulverized. This is because the delicate plant roots cannot penetrate hard lumps and are, therefore, deprived of much plant food. Tillage increases the availability of plant food elements by changing the arrangements of soil particles and bringing together those that have not before been in contact. It also changes the relation of the soil with air, water, salts and acids in the soil, making available plant food that would otherwise remain dormant.

ADDRESSES WOMAN'S CLUB

President Ohio Humane Society Delivers Interesting Talk Here Friday Afternoon.

Dr. A. M. Robinson, state president of the Ohio Humane Society, addressed the Mason County Woman's Club Friday afternoon in the Elks' club-room, which was generously placed at their disposal.

Mrs. Shelby Blatterman presided, and Mr. William Campbell, pastor of the Second Street M. E. church, in a few well-chosen words, introduced the speaker.

In view of the fact that Dr. Robinson had spoken here recently in the interest of humane work, Dr. Robinson did not confine himself to this subject, but took as his theme the humorous side of a minister's life, and his talk was replete with choice humor most cleverly told, which kept the delighted audience in a constant state of laughter.

In an addenda upon humane work, he gave a terse and vigorous account of what had been done by the men and women of Ohio in humane work, $60,000 having been spent in the interest of children alone. This should be encouraging and inspiring to our people just across the river who are interested in this work.

Dr. Robinson's illustration of the jelly-fish was most pertinent and impressive. Two men sauntering along the coast came upon an almost lifeless jelly-fish. With a toss of his foot one of the men threw the jelly-fish back into the water. "Give him a chance," he said. A wave took him out a little way, then another caught him and bore him still a little way farther. "See, he has life," the man exclaimed, as the jelly-fish was borne out to the current instead of with life. And as the human wrecks that strew life's shore can be often saved and reclaimed if we only "give them a chance"—a little help and boosting.

After the lecture the business meeting was held. Owing to so many members being absent on account of the school reception, the election of officers was postponed until Friday, April 30, at 2 p. m., and it is to be hoped there will be no conflicting dates.

There is a strong rumor afloat that the B. H. Kroger Grocery Company, of Cincinnati, will in the near future, establish a branch grocery in this city.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Highwaymen Held Up Mr. Stanley Cobb Saturday Night In Heart of City.

Saturday night about 10:30 o'clock, while walking along West Second street, Mr. Stanley Cobb, an employee of the Bates & Rogers Construction Company, was the victim of a most daring holdup. As he passed the alley that runs between the Caproni and Duley grocery stores, he was grabbed by two unknown men and dragged into the alleyway and hit over the head with some kind of a blunt instrument, causing a large welt over the eye. A passing farmer, who lives back of Aberdeen, O., saw the holdup men at work and ran to his rescue. He, too, was struck over the head and about the body, and then screamed for help.

About this time a crowd had gathered and the highwaymen made their escape without accomplishing their purpose of robbery.

The police were soon on the scene and took Cobb and the farmer to the Mayor's office, where they related their story, giving a complete description of the men who so boldly attempted this daring crime. Shortly after John Darnall was arrested, charged with being one of the robbers, and was placed in jail after having been identified by Cobb and the farmer as one of the men who participated in the holdup. Had it not been for the timely arrival of the Aberdeen farmer, Cobb would have fared pretty badly at the hands of the highwaymen, as he was putting up a stiff fight against them single-handed. He was knocked down twice before assistance came.

On Sunday night Policeman Stewart arrested Henry Cooper, who lives in Clifton, as one of the parties wanted for taking part in the holdup. The police are still after another man, said to have been one of the guilty parties to this crime.

"NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED LARGEST IN OUR HISTORY."

"Thousands in the Many Bread Lines of Our Great Cities."

In a strong letter to the London Times, which is published as the leading article in the March issue of the North American Review, Col. George Harvey, whose pen was wielded with vigor in favor of the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency and who industriously kept up the boom until he was curtly requested to desist makes a pointed allusion to the industrial distress in the United States. "Mr. Wilson will again be moved to pray to be saved from his friends when he reads these words addressed by Col. Harvey to 'my dear Lord Northcliffe.'" "Do you know that the number of unemployed in the United States today—some say it reaches five millions—is larger than ever before in our history, that thousands stand daily and nightly upon the many 'bread lines' in our great cities, that practically all of our industrial establishments, except those engaged in producing essentials chiefly for England and France, are running on little better than 'half-time,' that enforced stoppage of the payment of dividends upon widely distributed shares of concerns like the Steel Corporation has plunged scores of thousands of families into comparative want, that the entire south lies prostrate and helpless under the mountain of its unsalable cotton?"

KISSING ALL RIGHT.

Dr. Harvey Wiley, noted for his twists and quirks, says kissing is all right. He eries down the patent screen osculation and admits that little if any harm, results from the mutual meeting of lips in tea-party welcome, or lovers' sonata. We are glad to hear it. It would be a dreadful thing indeed, if the health experts of the nation were resolved that kissing was dangerous and strong in their resolution succeeded in passing anti-kissing laws, thus putting down at one blow, as criminals, every kissable young woman and eligible young man in the United States, to say nothing of the married couple who have performed the duty so regularly, they would be bound to forget and offend, in spite of a determination not to. The good doctor has relieved a multitude of minds.—Paducah Sun.

EXERCISES AT BERE A

Commemorating Fiftieth Anniversary of General Lee's Surrender Described by Mrs. C. C. Degman.

Berea, Ky., April 10. Editor The Public Ledger:

We left Maysville at 5:30 a. m., had a three-hours' wait at Paris and one hour at Richmond, reaching Berea at 1:15 p. m. Aside from the "waits" the trip is a delightful one, coming up as we do from the mist and fog of the river and see the sun arise in a cloudless sky and breathe the pure air of the beautiful country. The wait at Paris is relieved by a visit to a little shop nearby where a good breakfast with excellent coffee is served. The one at Richmond is all too short, for the walk in the nearby historic old cemetery, where the bullet holes in several monuments bring sad memories of the battle that was fought there more than fifty years ago, or to the court house yard to visit Boone's Rock, which, by its forlorn appearance seems, mutely, to protest against the desecration that brought it from its native fern-clad dell to its present location. It was broken in the transition and was mended—just think of it—with cement.

Friday, April 9, at 7:30 p. m., we entered the magnificent college chapel at Berea to attend the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of General Robert E. Lee's surrender, under the auspices of Captain James West Post, G. A. R., Woman's Relief Corps and Berea College. The exercises, befitting the distinguished promoters, the splendid building and the occasion, were grand in their simplicity. The presiding officers, Prof. LeVant Dodge, than whom the G. A. R. has no more faithful adherent, retains his splendid physique, which, together with his active Christian life, seems to defy time. The exercises opened with national and popular airs, beautifully rendered by the college band and choir.

Prof. Dodge in his speech of welcome, stated the object of the celebration, which was to inculcate patriotism and the love of peace into the hearts and minds of the rising generation. Prof. Ribby sang "Recessional," and the way he brought out "Lest we forget," was touching.

"The Triumph of Lee's Surrender," by President Frost, was just what one would expect from this broad-minded, Christian man, an eloquent tribute to the great general whose genius is recognized world wide. He related an anecdote that President Wilson had given him that illustrates his entire address. I will give it: "General Lee was almost surrounded. His supplies were cut off; he was almost in despair, when a messenger came to him from General Grant urging surrender. The messenger presumed to add his own powers of reasoning to those of his general and said, 'My dear general, why further sacrifice life? General Grant knows your condition. Why, he even knows what you had for breakfast this morning.' The sad face of General Lee brightened into a smile, as he said, 'If General Grant is the same kind of man he was when we were classmates at West Point, and he had known what I had for breakfast this morning, he would have sent me part of his.'"

An interesting paper on "Memories of the War," was read by Mrs. E. L. Hanson. The members of the Post, as their names were called by Prof. Dodge, arose from reserved seats and marched to the rostrum, amid applause from the immense crowd of spectators. Each member gave a short report of where and how they first received the news of the surrender that brought to an end the four years of nightmare under which our country suffered. Their accounts were pathetic and amusing. Some of them told and illustrated how they threw their hats into the air, then kicked them as they came down and then re-kicked them to shreds. Others joined in "shouting" until they were hoarse; others sang, "Praise God, From Whom All Blessings Flow." One member of the Post, Mr. Gabbert, sang a war song to a quaint old tune; encored, he sang "Kingdom's Coming." The large number of students present were intensely interested and applauded vociferously these quaint, old-time demonstrations.

Mrs. Dodge represented the W. R. C., and her "Tribute to the G. A. R.," was rendered in a clear voice full of pathos as she assured them that "though the G. A. R. will soon be only a memory, later, will be known only in history; yet our organization is so arranged as to be perpetual, and we assure you of our undying devotion to your order and we gladly pledge ourselves to give assistance to your families and to do our utmost to inculcate lessons of patriotism into the minds of your children, and to honor and cherish forever the memory of the immortal G. A. R."

Rev. R. W. Brown, of the M. E. Church, was to have given an address on "The Blessings of Peace," but as he was called from home by illness of a relative, his place was ably filled by Dr. B. H. Roberts.

MRS. C. C. DEGMAN.

D. A. R. POLITICS ACTIVE.

Washington, April 19.—With the formal opening today of the Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, politics of the organization began to move in earnest. Supporters of Mrs. William Cumming Story of New York, who is seeking reelection to the office of president-general, and of Mrs. George T. Guernsey of Kansas, who is the rival candidate for the office, were busy throughout the day conducting buttonhole campaigns. Teas and receptions also are being given by the followers of the rival candidates. The election will take place Thursday. In the meantime mere man promises to be an insignificant creature in Washington.

ENGLAND REMEMBERS BEACONS-FIELD.

London, April 19.—One of the noticeable effects of the present war has been to revive popular interest in the life and works of the late Lord Beaconsfield, who was at the helm when the British ship of state was obliged to navigate a dangerous maelstrom of European politics. This revival of interest was reflected today in the unusually wide observance of "Primrose Day," which is the anniversary of the death of the celebrated statesman. Hundreds of pedestrians seen on the streets wore primroses, while great wreaths of the statesman's favorite flower were placed about the base of the Beaconsfield monument.

PLAN MUSICAL STANDARD.

La Crosse, Wis., April 19.—Fixing of a standard of music teaching and establishing a set of qualifications which music teachers must live up to is the principal subject slated for discussion at the annual convention of the Wisconsin Music Teachers' Association now in session here. The members assembled today and will continue their meeting until Thursday.

PATRIOTS' DAY AT EXPOSITION.

San Francisco, Cal., April 19.—Patriots' Day, the anniversary of the battles at Lexington and Concord, was observed today with a special program of exercises at the Panama exposition. The celebration was in charge of the New England Society of California.

FIFTY YEARS AFTER.

Fifty years after the close of the Civil war the Grand Army of the Republic Department of Massachusetts, held its annual convention yesterday at Faneuil Hall. To those who as veterans participated in or as spectators gazed upon the gathering it was an inspiring sight, even though the boys of '61 to '65 who met yesterday as comrades are veterans now in years as well as in honors.

There remains today no "boy comrades" of the Grand Army. The very youngest of those who enlisted for the war have reached that ripeness of age in which they are entitled to be called veterans as well as comrades and the bulk of those who make up the membership of the Grand Army are old men. The records show, if evidence were needed, that the ranks are rapidly growing thinner; posts in small towns have ceased to be for reasons inexorable, men who once proudly marched beneath tattered emblems of loyalty and heroism have passed, never to return.

In a few years the Grand Army of the Republic will have ceased to be more than a fragrant memory of exalted patriotism, but the spirit which it exemplifies and the glorious ideals which it has represented should never be forgotten or ignored.—Boston Journal.

CURE OF CRIMINALS.

Warden Osborne, of Sing Sing, if he had his way, would keep the criminal, whatever his offense, in confinement until he was "cured" and no longer; and in argument for his plan he likens men in prison to patients in a hospital. The latter, in theory at least, are kept until they are well or dead, no matter what is the ailment, and on recovery, if they do recover, they are allowed to go. And that is just what he would do with the morally sick—the criminal.—Owensboro Inquirer.

All the Bull Moosers seem to have returned to the G. O. P. fold except Leslie Combs. Les' loss of his political "pull" goes awfully hard with him.

Germany believes that one good intern deserves another.

A Wise Girl.

Harper S. Jerome said, apropos of an aged statesman's marriage to a beautiful young girl:

"This girl is not like the Duluth one."

"A Duluth girl typewriter was approached by her father, a bricklayer, nervously."

"'Mamie,' said the man, clearing his throat, 'Banker Wright, your employer, called on me this morning. He—er—'

"The bricklayer cleared his throat again."

"'Mamie,' he said, 'what do you think about a fine, rich husband of 75?'

"I think, pa,' the girl demurely answered, 'that I'd rather have three of 25.'"

SUNDAY SCHOOLS OF KENTUCKY

Large Things Are Being Done by the Schools of Blue Grass State

ARE OUT FOR A MILLION

Encouraged by Success of Last Year, the Kentucky Sunday School Association Has Appointed April 25th, 1915, as the Second "Go-to-Sunday-School Day"—Extensive Preparations Are Being Made.

Last year the Kentucky Sunday School Association, which represents all of the Sunday Schools of the state, about four thousand in number, with an average attendance of nearly three hundred thousand, appointed May 3rd as a state-wide "Go-to-Sunday-School Day," when an effort was made to secure one million people in the Sunday Schools of the state for that day. This was the first time such a state-wide movement had been attempted by any state.

Governor Jas. B. McCreary, Governor of Kentucky, issued a proclamation calling everybody to Sunday School for that day. This was the first time any governor had ever issued such a proclamation. The governor said: "The supreme need in Kentucky today is that the forces which make for character and Christianity shall control the forces which make for intelligence and patriotism, and one of the greatest forces which make for character and Christianity is the Sunday School." He then urged all Kentuckians and visitors in the state to attend the Sunday Schools in the church of their choice on that day that they might give encouragement and honor to those who teach in these schools, that they may see the work that is being done, and that they might in this service worship their God.

President Wilson also sent a telegram to the association endorsing the movement, saying in part: "The Sunday School lesson of to-day is the code of morals of to-morrow."

Every county in Kentucky was organized in this work and seventeen hundred voluntary workers took part in visiting Sunday Schools and the largest enthusiasm developed everywhere.

Many cities and towns made complete visitation of all people in the towns and country round about. Banners were placed across streets. Parades were held. Special invitations given to every home. Interesting programs were prepared for the occasion, the Kentucky Sunday School Association prepared and issued to all Sunday Schools an order of service. Many Sunday Schools used automobiles, buggies and all kinds of vehicles on that day in getting people to the services. The result was that the number who attended the Sunday Schools that day exceeded six hundred thousand white people and over fifty-six thousand colored people.

Encouraged by the success of the effort last year, the Kentucky Sunday-School Association has appointed April 25th this year as the second "Go-to-Sunday-School Day," and already extensive preparations are being made and plans mapped out to reach the million.

All of the newspapers of the state rendered valuable assistance last year and are entering heartily into the plans this year.

Rev. Geo. A. Joplin, General Secretary; Rev. T. C. Gebauer, Mr. W. J. Vaughan, Miss Maude L. Dance, Field Workers, and Miss Frances Grigsby, Office Secretary, are visiting all parts of the state organizing the local forces, and sending literature to every section of the state. Information concerning the movement can be secured by writing to the Kentucky Sunday School Association, 712 Louisville Trust Building, Louisville, Ky.

CELEBRATING ITS FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Forty-nine years of service to the childhood and youth of Kentucky should make every true citizen of our state desire to have a part in the work that the Kentucky Sunday-school Association is doing in its fiftieth year. Thousands of boys have been trained for good citizenship and prevented from becoming criminals. Thousands of girls have been prepared for the duties of fine home life and prepared to meet successfully the temptations of life. It means so much more to form life and to have to reform it. The Association is asking this year for $12,000 and must depend entirely upon voluntary contributions for its work. There should be hundreds when they know of the opportunity who will gladly send from one to twenty-five dollars. The opportunity is now yours. Send your check at once to Mr. Clarence Watkins, 712 Louisville Trust Building, Louisville, Ky.

PATRIOTS' DAY CELEBRATION.

Boston, Mass., April 19.—The customary holiday was kept here today in celebration of the 140th anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord. Public offices, banks and schools were closed, and the usual anniversary meetings were held by the various patriotic societies.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.—Sir Philip Sidney.

A DAILY LESSON IN HISTORY

One Hundred Years Ago Today. 1815—The British Parliament had under consideration the question of men and money requisite to the undertaking of crushing Napoleon. In addition to the vast sums necessary to support her own naval and military establishments, Great Britain paid to the several allied powers, within the year, subsidies to the amount of nearly $60,000,000.

Seventy-five Years Ago Today. 1840—The sixty-fifth anniversary of the battles of Lexington and Concord was celebrated in Boston with a parade and public speaking.

Fifty Years Ago Today. 1865—Following impressive funeral services at the White House, the body of President Lincoln was removed, with an imposing military procession, and attended by an immense concourse of people to the rotunda of the national capitol. By request of the Department of State, the day was observed as a day of mourning throughout the country.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today. 1890—James Pollock who, while director of the United States Mint, obtained permission to stamp on national coins the motto, "In God We Trust," died at Lock Haven, Pa. Born at Milton, Pa., September 11, 1810. While in Congress Mr. Pollock was the first to introduce the subject of the construction of a railroad to the Pacific coast. Afterward he served as Governor of Pennsylvania.

MUZZLING THE PRESS.

(New York Times, February 25, 1915.)

In Birmingham, Ala., they have just arrested on a criminal charge Hiram R. De Laye, one of the largest newspaper and magazine distributors in the city. His crime is punishable by a fine of not less than $50 nor more than $500 and, in the discretion of the court, imprisonment at hard labor for not more than six months.

The crime of De Laye consisted in selling a copy of a newspaper published outside the state which contained a liquor advertisement. The Alabama Legislature passed, over the Governor's veto, a law making this a penal offense. Therefore the people of Alabama will have to restrict themselves largely to reading home papers and will have to abandon to a great extent the habit of reading magazines.

The newsmen of Alabama have tried to meet the situation by cutting out the liquor advertisements before putting the newspapers and magazines on sale. "This," says De Laye, "means much labor, as I handle more than 500 newspapers," and when the big Sunday papers arrive he will have to employ a large force of helpers to handle the scissors. But this will not bother him long, for his customers will soon cease to buy remains of newspapers. The Birmingham Age-Herald prints a cartoon of an indignant citizen trying to read the report of a battle in Belgium and finding the important part cut out because a liquor advertisement was printed on the back.

"The arrest of Mr. De Laye," generally explains the sheriff, "was in no way in the nature of making a test case, but means that he will be arrested every day and possibly every five minutes, if he keeps on violating the law." The Montgomery Advertiser and the Birmingham News have determined to ignore the law, and an injunction has been issued against the former.

This is prohibition run mad. It is said to be the logical result of prohibition. If it is, so much the worse for prohibition. Granted that prohibition is a good thing, still there are other interests in government and in human life, and they should not all be sacrificed to this, as if it were not only the most important but the only thing in the world. Carried to its logical extreme, this would permit states in which anti-cigarette or anti-racing laws exist to add thereto the anti-liquor provision, and by the time all these advertisements have been cut out the customer would not get much for his money.

OLD VIRGINIA DEBT CASE UP AGAIN.

Washington, April 19.—The controversy between Virginia and West Virginia over the $30,500,000 debt incurred by the states before they separated, is docketed for another hearing in the Supreme Court of the United States this week. The dispute bids fair to earn the title of the American Jarnyce case. For ten years it has occupied the highest tribunal, and the end is not yet in sight.

The difficulties between the two states first came before the Supreme Court in 1906, after protracted negotiations between the states. The task of straightening out the tangle was turned over to ex-Congressman Charles E. Littlefield of Maine, as a special master. The evidence adduced before Mr. Littlefield was passed upon by the Supreme Court in 1911, and Justice Holmes reported that West Virginia's share of liability should be placed at 23.5 per cent of the whole, amounting to $7,182,507. Justice Holmes noted that West Virginia was not credited with any assets in the transaction, and left it to the commissions formed by the states to find a ground for settlement.

After extensive hearings, Special Master Littlefield submitted his report to the Supreme Court last January. According to this report West Virginia was entitled to its proportionate share of the assets owned by the old State of Virginia on January 1, 1861. At the same time, Mr. Littlefield held, West Virginia was liable for its share of the interest on the outstanding bonds. The net result of Mr. Littlefield's findings was to raise West Virginia's liability from the $7,182,507 fixed by the decree of Justice Holmes, to an estimated $15,000,000.

New Moving Picture City

And How It Was Built

Front of Administration Building at Universal City.

The moving picture since its inception has accomplished some very wonderful things. The industry that it has created has been a veritable seven day wonder. It is looked upon as a business that breathes nothing but prosperity for those who are in it. Its most interesting features, however, are the mystery that seems to surround it, the many seemingly impossible things that are accomplished by it, and the unexplainable fascination that it has.

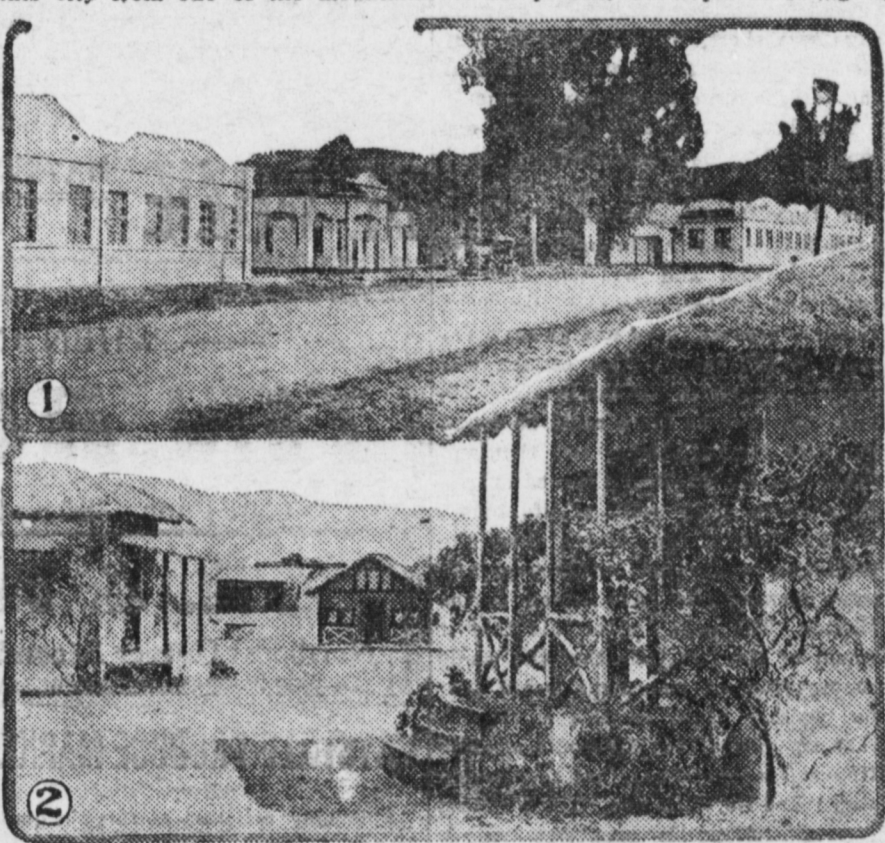

A bigger thing than any other that has so far been done in the picture business was recently accomplished by Mr. Carl Laemmle, president of the Universal Film Manufacturing company. A few miles from Los Angeles a brand new city has been built by him, which is used solely for the making of moving pictures.

In the San Bernardino valley the Universal company has built in a few short months a city which is complete in every detail. To gaze down upon this city from one of the mountains a time when the modern conveniences were not known.

The changeable architectural scheme has been carried out in the entire city and landscapes have been treated in the same way, that is, viewed from one side they present a certain aspect, from the opposite direction the character is of an entirely different sort. This will enable a director who, under ordinary circumstances, would have a certain number of good locations in such an extremely favored site as Universal City, to construct from fifteen to twenty-five more scenes with the same locations, which can be changed under the skillful guidance of the general manager.

The cost of the building of this wonder city will run into a million dollars; the cost of its maintenance will also require another large sum. This vast expenditure is being made at a time when nearly all the business men throughout the world are either contracting their business or limiting it to its present development owing to which surround it is like getting a bird's eye view of the entire world. In one section the seven hills of Rome may be seen. Paris, with its peculiar style of architecture; New York's skyscrapers; London, or perhaps some other well known city will be among the many strange sights.

This city is entirely completed, and the official opening took place on March 15. Now the Universal company are permitting visitors to come and see how moving pictures are made, to become acquainted with the many players who are familiar to them on the screen, and to roam at will around this wonder city to view the many things that are required in the making of photo plays. The Universal company will conduct a movie exposition at their city these coming months. This exhibit will include everything used in the making of pictures from the raw film to the moving picture theater itself, where photo plays will be shown the entire day.

Although the city contains everything that is required by a municipality from a waterworks system down to street cleaners, it also has many other things that could be found only in such a strange city as this. Things that represent periods of the long ago are typified in miniature.

Universal City is a land of make-believe. Ancient cities are erected; historical things are enacted; to be replaced on the morrow by something a little more modern. There is not a building in the entire limits of Universal City which could not be changed over night into something radically different and changed back again with equal facility.

The ability to change the color of the city at the slightest wish is what makes Universal City the most remarkable town that has ever been constructed by man. The large administration building itself is built with a different face on every quarter, and one of the shocks to which unsuspecting visitors at Universal City are likely to be subjected is the return through it from a different quarter to find it finished in an altogether different architectural scheme.

All of the streets are scientifically paved and piped for gas, electricity and sewer mains. It was also necessary to place the telephone and telegraph wires underground because of the possibility of interference with the making of pictures, some of the scenes of which are laid in ancient periods at the unsettled condition in Europe. While it is a big outlay, nevertheless it will prove a great economy in the future, as everything required in the making of pictures, from the smallest prop to the rarest bit of scenery, will be at their command.

The administration building, which is a series of structures facing the boulevard, contains the meeting room, reception hall, cashier's department, library, scenic department, telephone exchange, stenographers' department, telegraph office, auditor's office and general manager's office.

This building alone cost thirty thousand dollars. Its four sides are all different, representing various styles of architecture. The laboratory also has this peculiarity of exterior. The theater, which can be converted to represent either a country or city theater, will permit the showing of three pictures at one time. There are also bunkhouses for the cowboys and barracks for the housing of the Universal troops of expert cavaliers. These buildings, beside serving their original purpose, can be given a temporary mission to serve the pictures in some other capacity.

The wardrobe building stands by itself a short distance from the other main structures. It has a floor space of 50 by 100 feet. The costume shops, the interior of which would remind one of a large clothing establishment, contain 20 electrically operated sewing machines. This department has facilities for the making of any kind of costume that may be required, from the period of Adam to our present styles. The work is supervised by experts who have spent many years in the making of costumes for theatrical purposes.

A school for the children, which is operated under state supervision, has been built in Universal City. Alongside of the main school building an outdoor equipment has been supplied, so that on pleasant days school can be conducted in the open. The child actors and the children who are not appearing in film, in this way are given the education which the state prescribes for all its residents.

There is a great number of dressing rooms, all of which are fireproof and equipped with hot and cold running water, electric and gas lights and steam heat. Adjacent to the dressing rooms are swimming pools and bath rooms for both men and women.

White Arabian steeds, saddled horses, western horses, English horses, breeds, long-horned steers, burros, military mules and Shetland ponies are stabled in several corrals.

There are two modern and thoroughly equipped hospitals and infirmaries fitted out with every modern instrument for surgical and pathological remedy. These are under the direction of two physicians. The pharmacy department contains every drug, chemical and scientific appliance necessary to the upkeep of the medical department.

A quarter mile track, which will serve many purposes, encircles a playground which includes a baseball diamond, handball alleys and tennis courts. Circling the track are grandstands, stadiums and bleachers, which can be converted into the ancient Roman amphitheater or the Olympic stadium of Greece.

Every nature of vehicle is contained in the carriage house, ranging from the chariot of the Homeric warrior to our most up-to-date landau. Next to this is the garage, containing a hundred automobiles of different makes and descriptions. Its smithy and harness shops are complete and thoroughly equipped for the purposes intended.

Cottages, bungalows and villas of all descriptions are interspersed here and there throughout the city. These are rented to the employees by the Universal company at rates far beneath the usual rental. It is not the intention of the company to make any money on the rental of these quarters, but it is merely charging the actual cost.

For the convenience of both men and women a clubhouse has been built. This contains a library, Turkish bath, bowling alleys, swimming pool, billiard and pool rooms, grill, lounging and reception rooms. The club is controlled and maintained by the company for the use and enjoyment of the inhabitants of the city. Adjoining the club is the gym, complete in its appointments, including everything in use in the athletic clubs in our largest cities.

The best water that can be obtained in California is supplied to every building. Its reservoirs are fed by seven artesian wells, which give water 99 per cent pure at the rate of 300,000 gallons per day.

While the city itself is very picturesque, there are within it many odd settlements. The Indian village, which lies off in one section of the city, is characteristic of the dyed-in-the-wool Indian as he was known in the last century. Their teepees are strewn over this section and they are permitted to pursue their own mode of living. They take great delight in reviving the customs that were in vogue when they freely roamed the plains and shot the wild animals in their favorite hunting grounds. They have revived the occupations that were indulged in by their ancestors, such as the shaping of pottery, making of bows and arrows, stringing of beads and making of tomahawks.

There are two restaurants on the ground, which are equipped and finished with the same completeness that will be found in any large city. For their own entertainment the photo players have organized an orchestra, which plays both the classic and popular pieces during the dining hours. This orchestra is screened from view by palms and ferns.

A stage accommodating 20 sets of scenery and conceded to be the largest stage in the world, is built in this city. In addition to this, there also has been built a large inside studio, which is used during the rainy season. There is also a wonderful revolving stage and a rocking stage, two innovations in the making of pictures.

The river which flows through the city is spanned by a number of bridges, ranging from the rustic foot bridge to the American trestle. All of these bridges can be converted so as to resemble some other kind of bridge, such as a Roman stone bridge or a cantilever. On the river itself is a fleet of boats ranging from a canoe to a fully-equipped steam launch.

The river is dammed so that a certain low section can be overflowed to convert it into a miniature lake. There is also much natural scenery available, such as the rugged mountain sides, the deep-cut canyons, the waterfalls which abound in the mountains, the numerous caves which dot the hill-sides, and the ocean, which is but a few miles away.

There are many strange animals in this city which will remind one of the jungles of Africa or the wilds of India. The llamas, the tigers, leopards, hyenas, giraffes, zebras and many other wild animals complete one of the largest privately owned menageries in the world.

The natural scenery which surrounds Universal City makes it one of the most visited beauty spots on the coast. Rugged mountain sides, with their native trees and foliage, crevices, caves and canyons abound throughout this city. The city itself is laid out in flower gardens, which include plants secured from many foreign countries. Also the native flowers blossom there in abundance. Sunken gardens have been built, and many corners are beautified with plant life, all of which are used to splendid advantage in the pictures.

There are many other interesting spots in Universal City which must necessarily be seen to be appreciated, such as the inclosure in which the animal pictures are taken, the Wyoming village and the mechanical departments.

The population of Universal City is composed entirely of people engaged in the making of moving pictures, including many of the famous stage people of the world.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Maysville People Learn the Importance of It?

Backache is only a simple thing at first; But if you find 'tis from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles may follow; That dropsy or Bright's disease may be the fatal end; You will be glad to know the following experience.

"This is the statement of a Maysville citizen. Mrs. Della Lunsford, 328 E. Front St., Maysville, Ky., says: 'I attributed kidney trouble to a strain. I had sharp, shooting pains through my kidneys and a dragging down feeling through my hips. I had dull headaches and dizzy spells and often if I had not caught hold of something for support, I would have fallen. I was in that condition for several years, up one week and in bed the next. I finally began to notice symptoms of dropsy and in a short time I was suffering from that trouble. My feet began to swell and my hands were at times the same way. At night I was restless and always felt tired. I read of a similar case being cured by Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply. Before long I was completely and permanently cured. Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life. I am glad to confirm my former endorsement of this remedy.' Price 50¢ at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Lunsford had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

IN STERLING LIVES A GIRL

Who Suffered As Many Girls Do—Tells How She Found Relief.

Sterling, Conn.—"I am a girl of 22 years and I used to faint away every month and was very weak. I was also bothered a lot with female weakness. I read your little book 'Wisdom for Women,' and I saw how others had been helped by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I decided to try it, and it has made me feel like a new girl and I am now relieved of all these troubles. I hope all young girls will get relief as I have. I never felt better in my life."—Mrs. JOHN TETREAU, Box 116, Sterling, Conn.

Massena, N. Y.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I highly recommend it. If anyone wants to write to me I will gladly tell her about my case. I was certainly in a bad condition as my blood was all turning to water. I had pimples on my face and a bad color, and for five years I had been troubled with suppression. The doctors called it 'Anemia and Exhaustion,' and said I was all run down, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me out all right."—Miss LAVISA MYRES, Box 74, Massena, N. Y.

Young Girls, Heed This Advice. Girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should immediately seek restoration to health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Beautiful Home For Sale

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dawson have placed with us for sale their new home on East Second street, in the Sixth Ward. This home is located on a large lot, 72x150 feet, and running back to Williams street. We will not make any attempt to describe this home in detail. It is built of pressed brick, with hardwood floors, basement under the entire house, slate roofing, hot water, furnace, gas all over the house, and in fact, is modern and complete throughout, and must be seen to be fully appreciated. This beautiful home has been admired by all who have seen it, and every Maysvillian is justly proud of such enterprising citizens, as the builders of this property. Mr. Dawson's health is such that his physician has advised him to spend his winters in the South, and for that reason he offers his home for sale at less than cost, $6,500.

CLOSING SERVICE

Of Big Revival At Third Street M. E. Church Last Night Very Impressive —Fine Day In All Departments.

Last night's service at the Third Street M. E. church marked the close of a successful two weeks' revival effort. There were only six conversions during the meetings, but the gospel messages, as presented by Dr. Aultman, are sure to leave a lasting impression on every one who heard him. Never before has there been any one at this church who has preached in such a plain and yet forcible manner. Truly, he is a man after God's own heart.

"The Shepherd's Psalm" was Dr. Aultman's theme yesterday morning, and he dwelt on almost every word and brought out every point about this most beautiful chapter so clearly that brought joy and peace to the heart of every Christian present and should have made every one still out of Christ long for the Christian experience.

In the afternoon Dr. Aultman's subject was "Freedom From Sin," with the text found in Acts 8:2, "And devout men carried Stephen, and made great lamentation over him." His message was short, but he made it very clear how God could and would bear the burdens if we would only let Him.

The final service last night was one that will long be remembered by every one present. His theme was "No Room For Jesus," with the text found in Luke 2:7, "And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped Him in swaddling clothes, and laid Him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn." This sermon was one of the greatest of the revival. He said that even as there could be found no place for the Savior two thousand years ago, He was being turned out by so many in every walk of life today.

At the close of the service, when the invitation was given, one young lady came forward and gave herself to the Master. The good Doctor said that it would be the last time that the whole congregation of last night would ever be together again on this earth, but that he trusted that all would meet in Heaven, and he asked that they would sing "God Be With You, 'Till We Meet Again." After the song was sung, a final invitation was given, because, as he said, there might be some who were still wanting salvation. No one came forward and after singing the "Doxology," the congregation was dismissed.

"SWEET"

That's what we heard a young man say after he had kissed his best girl. Of course, we didn't say that the kiss wasn't sweet, but we knew that it didn't compare to the sweetness and goodness of the fine candies which we make. Besides the fine candy which we make, we handle all other standard waxes. Our motto is "Once a customer, always a customer."
